THE ENGINE BLEW UP.

Created Much Excitement at Wyoming and Lackawanna Avenues.

Soon after 2 o'clock vesterday afternoon those in the neighborhood of Lackawanna and Wyoming avenues were startled by a loud report, which was caused by an explosion of the little steam engine on the peanut stand alongside Banister's store.

A large crowd quickly gathered and was found that the engine was reduced to fragments and rendered worthless. The cause of the explosion was assigned to a leakage of gas, which heated the boiler. One lady was rendered unconscious, but was not seriously hurt, and soon recovered herself at one of the adjacent hotels. Fortunately, although the consequences might have been serious, the flying fragments missed the people who were passing by, the peanuts, which were scattered in every direction, being the most formidable things which struck those near by. The juvenile element were in great glee and enjoyed a free lunch of peanuts.

The cost of the engine is $250, which the owner claims is covered by insur-

FRANKLIN AVENUE TRACK

Railways Committee of Select Couneil Listen to Arguments.

REASONS PRO AND CON HEARD

Property Owners Say a Double Track Would Be a Great Injury to Them-P. W. Gallagher of the Traction Company Argued to the Contrary.

A rather animated meeting of the strest railways committee of select council was held last evening when was considered the ordinance proposed in the interest of the Scranton Traction company and granting it permission to change the tracks on Franklin avenue from the center to the side of the street. The session was attended by Chairman Williams and Members Kellow and ple will witness the Yale-Princeton foot ball game in New York Saturday. They Manley, of the committee, and several property owners. Although no decihave engaged a special car and will sion was made by the committee after hearing arguments pro and con, it is probable that when the committee return Saturday evening, and others meets Friday evening it will decide to recommend that the ordinance pass. For the property owners C. B. Scott and Everhart argued that four-fifths of Miss Belin, Miss Simpson, Miss Winton, the property owners, representing 750 feet frontage out of 850 feet affected, petitioned against the passage of the Ridge People's line in charge of Motor- his friend, Mr. Howe, and Joseph Boies ordinance; that the street is narrower than Wyoming or Lackawanna avenues and that with only a single track a

ing; that the block is occupied principally by wholesale houses which have not the convenience of a rear alley.

Other arguments were advanced, but

special stress was made upon the petition against the proposed track laying.

Mr. Gallagher's Argument.

P. W. Gallagher, for the company,

argued that according to actual measurements of long bodied tracks with projecting tailboards there would be

several inches of space between the outside rail and the front end of the trucks;

that double tracks would not interfere
